Air Aware Calendar Contest for Clean Air Month

April 28, 2011 – May is Clean Air Month and the Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District encourages K-12 students throughout the district’s service area to participate in an air quality awareness competition for the 2012 Air Aware Poster Calendar. Each student is asked to create a picture that positively addresses one or more ways to keep the air we breathe clean. The Yolo-Solano AQMD board of directors will consider each picture's message, content, design, and degree of creativity in determining winners. Selected work will be featured on the 2012 calendar and the student will receive $50 and a copy of the calendar.

“The goal of the calendar contest is to increase student’s awareness of activities such as carpooling, recycling and green activities that have a positive impact on air quality,” said Yolo-Solano AQMD’s Executive Director Mat Ehrhardt. “Each year we are impressed by the creativity of the students and their understanding of clean air activities.”

Entries must be received by June 1, 2011 and should be sent or delivered to the Yolo-Solano AQMD office at 1947 Galileo Court, Suite 103, Davis, CA 95618. For additional information and entry forms, go to www.ysaqmd.org or call (530) 757-3650 or (800) 287-3650. The Yolo-Solano AQMD is a public health agency responsible for protecting human health and property from the harmful effects of air pollution.
