Local Student Art Featured in 2021 Clean Air Calendar

(Davis, CA) – Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District’s (YSAQMD) Calendar Contest called artistic K-12 students throughout the Air District to illustrate the importance of clean air. The District had the pleasure of selecting 12 talented students who created colorful works of art using crayon, pencil and pen to be featured in this years’ calendar.

The following winners were selected by District staff and received a Certificate of Achievement, $30 Amazon gift card and copies of the final calendar:

- Elias Owens, Bethany Lutheran School
- Avram Owens, Bethany Lutheran School
- Mikayla Flores, Browns Valley Elementary
- Aiden Villaruel, Vanden High School
- Caitlyn Gonzalez, Willis Jepson Middle School
- Grady Potts, Homeschool
- Aeraci Owens, Homeschool
- Benaiah Harshe, Kairos Public School
- Joanna Liao, North Davis Elementary School
- Heidi Nittinger, Notre Dame School
- Jackelyn Cooper, Shirley Rominger Intermediate School
- Reia Cooper, Waggoner Elementary School

“We were impressed and refreshed by the positive and creative entries we received this year, especially given the challenges many families and students have been dealing with this year,” said Public Information Officer Stephanie Holliday.

Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District holds the Calendar Contest each spring as a fun and engaging opportunity for District students to learn about air pollution. The District supports its mission to protect human health and property from the harmful effects of air pollution through outreach, public education and engagement throughout the year.
